

Join NIED's Education Committee and Make a Difference!

At NIED, we believe that education is the key to better understanding, better support, and better treatment for those impacted by eating disorders. That's why a core focus of ours is on creating and sharing educational resources that empower both individuals with eating disorders and their caregivers.

What does the Education Committee do?

Our committee is responsible for developing, delivering, and sharing a wide range of resources, including symposia, webinars, lunch-and-learns, tools, and other educational materials. These resources aim to have a direct and meaningful impact on those facing the challenges of eating disorders and their families.

We meet virtually once a month for an hour, usually in the early evening, to brainstorm, strategize, and implement these educational programs.

Who are we looking for?

We're seeking enthusiastic, passionate individuals who are willing to roll up their sleeves and get involved. Whether you have a background in education, healthcare, lived experience with eating disorders, or simply a desire to help, we'd love to hear from you! Your input will make a difference.

Why join?

By joining the Education Committee, you'll be part of a team that is making a real difference in the lives of people affected by eating disorders. You'll contribute to creating impactful educational resources that provide vital information to those who need it most.

Interested?

Please reach out to us at lynne@nied.ca to express your interest or for more information.

Help us change lives through education!